

The ringside near the chow judging was provided with a set of bleachers for spectators. Unfortunately, various inconsiderate people kept walking between the bleachers and the ring and stopping to watch the judging. When this happened, the view of the action for all but the top rank of the bleachers was totally obscured. (What these silly fools thought we were all sitting there for is beyond me.) The occupants of the bleachers soon became proficient in letting out hoots of outrage. Those in the ring may have thought this noise was intended for their dogs! It wasn't!

The entry for the Specialty was 30, including 1 for exhibition only and 1 veteran. I counted 20 chow entries in the regular Credit Valley Show. The following is a quick run down of the Specialty Results. (Jennifer Bunting)
